May Have Another Farmers' Meeting Here

When All Members of The Tilley Commission Are Expected

Such keen interest was shown at the mass meeting held here two weeks ago for the purpose of discussing problems in the Tilley East Area, and so many resolutions were passed and opinions expressed by farmers of the district, it now looks as though members of the commission regret they were not here and are now anxious that another similar meeting be held. Mr. Furber, secretary of the local U. F. A. branch, has received a letter from a member of the commission, expressing the wish that another opportunity be given them to meet representatives of the several localities of the district to go more fully into the problems brought up at the last meeting. Dates have been suggested on which it will be possible for all members of the commission to be here, and we understand arrangements are now under way for another meeting to be held in Cliff Hill, Redcliff, on the afternoon of Wednesday, December 4th. Plans have not yet been completed, but when they are, surrounding locals will be notified.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenworthy, of Gull Lake, spent the holiday season here with their daughter, Mrs. Sid Harper.

Forty-seven lives were lost on the south coast. Newfoundland as a result of a 15-foot tidal wave from Monday's earthquake.

Diplomats and foreign ministers of five of the world's great powers are now busy exploring the possibilities of an agreement on all issues that the new disarmament conference which meets in London eight weeks hence, will be called on to solve.

A delegation from the Seventh Day Adventists waited on the Attorney General of the province and asked exemption from the Lord's Day Act as they worshipped the seventh instead of the first day of the week. The Attorney General informed the delegation that the Act made no provision for such exemption.

St. Mary's Church Has Successful Event

St. Mary's Altar Society's chicken supper and dance held on Armistice afternoon and evening was a great success from every standpoint. The supper, which was served from 5:30 to 8:30, was a real treat, and remarks about "getting one's money's worth" were heard on all sides. After the supper a dance was held in the same building. Both supper and dance were well patronized and much enjoyed.

Two Good Shows For Cameo Next Week

Thrills of naval aviation form a spectacular background for "The Flying Fleet," at the Cameo next Monday. Sensational reviews, battle practice, a rescue at sea with a burning airplane as a backdrop, and other sensational episodes, with hundreds of navy planes in the air, are among the thrills.

"Pawns of Passion," which will be shown next Thursday, is the story of a woman pursued by a ruthless lover who is determined to win her against her will. It sweeps from the windswept no-man's-lands of the Russian border to the Latin Quarters of Paris. A large part of the picture is in Russian, Polish and Austria, and its theme is the great Russian actress Olga Chikova.

Word has been received by J. M. Gibson, general publicity agent, Canadian Pacific Railway, that His Excellency the Governor-General, Canada will extend his patronage to the Canadian Pacific series of six concert tours of British and Canadian music to be given across Canada, commencing in the fall of this year and continuing until the spring of 1930.

A notable beauty spot is being created to public notice this summer by the Alpine Club of Canada which is holding its annual camp from July 15 to July 21 on the site of the old railway village of Russell's near Glacier House, at the west end of the Coughnutt Tunnel on the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway. The camp commands a marvellous view of the surrounding mountains.

On the first anniversary of their wedding, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Vanderhoff, Jr., recently left the Cliff Springs Hotel in the Canada Rockies for a motor trip through western Canada. He was going on a business trip and she was accompanying him.

Be Sure To Get Name or Voters List

This Must Be Attended To Before December 5th

Municipal elections in some cities and preparations for same in others, reminds one that the time for the annual town and village elections is also approaching. In the past many citizens have been disappointed on election day to find they had no vote, and in most cases it was their own fault because they had not seen to it to get their names on the voters' list. Our town voters' list is now prepared and open for inspection as outlined in a notice appearing in this issue. Those eligible to be on the list should call on the secretary before Dec. 5th and make sure that his or her name is on it. Otherwise you will be disappointed when voting day comes round if there should be an election for Mayor, council or trustees.

Redcliff Pupils are Making Good Showing

Redcliff pupils now attending the high school at Medicine Hat made a good showing in the October examinations. Francis Buchholz headed the list of those taking honors in grade XII. William Sellhorn stood third in the honor list of the same grade. In grade XI Evelyn Hicks stood well in the list of those who took between 60 and 75 per cent.

Mayor Bullivant and Alderman J. A. King are in the Mayrally contest in Medicine Hat this year.

A resolution was passed extending the thanks of the Legion to Misses Annie Shaw, Irene Buchholz, Janet Patterson, Jean Patterson, Jean Moore, Lillian Morton, Evelyn Jones and Anne Hodges, for selling the poppies for Armistice Day and also to those who helped make the sale a success. The carnival committee report of that after paying all expenses there would be little if any funds left over for a surplus.

Last Saturday week Miss Harvey, Dominion Field Secretary of the Girl Guides, visited Redcliff for the purpose of inspecting the 1st Redcliff company. The girls were paraded in the parish hall and were addressed by Miss Harvey, who went through the tenderfoot test with them and presented the various badges. Miss Broadfoot and Mrs. Cooper were present as Captain and Lieutenant of the company. The little group did very smart in their uniforms. On Monday Miss Harvey came up again from Medicine Hat and addressed a small gathering of parents and other adults explaining the purpose and methods of Girl Guiding, and urging keen interest on the part of the elders as the best way of securing continuity. She expressed herself as much pleased with the appearance and efficiency of the company.

Local Legion Parades To St. Ambrose Church

Where An Appropriate Armistice Service Was Held

The local Legion paraded to St. Ambrose church last Sunday when the services took a semi-memorial character, the war shrine being decorated with poppies. Appropriate hymns were sung and the vicar preached from the text "All live unto Him," (St. Luke 20, 38), dwelling on the statements and implications of revelation regarding the life after death as a guide to our views and hopes for pals who have passed beyond.

On Monday a memorial service was held at 10:45 a.m., the two minute silence being observed after suggestions on lines of incense and remembrance had been given by the vicar. Hymns were sung and prayers offered at the war shrine as usual.

The process of snatching the laurels from the brows of California is going right on in Canada. "Our Lady of the Snows" is bringing her name in the mild climate of Vancouver Island, British Columbia. Announcement has been made recently that the second annual Empire Hotel mid-winter golf tournament at the Colwood course, Victoria, will be held from February 17 to 23 inclusive, a time when the country north of the delta parallel is popularly supposed to be fast deep in snow. Photographs included in above lay-out will show this popular belief to be a fallacy as far as the Victoria course is concerned.

B.C. Government Will Delete Outdoor Advertising Along Provincial Highway

The British Columbia Government has declared an undertaking over on outdoor advertising along the provincial highways, and during the next few weeks all billboards and signs devoted to subjects other than road directions will be removed. The government is thus taking action that will provide a uniform system along the highways from British Columbia to Mexico. The Oregon State Government has already taken action to have all advertising matter removed from the state highways, and legislation of similar effect is before the Washington state authorities.

"We don't want to be hard on the people who have spent money on advertising," said Hon. Alex. Loughhead, Minister of Public Works, "but we place first consideration on the beauty of the province's scenery. We believe that the public has a right to enjoy that scenery without the defacement by a lot of unsightly advertising matter. The government does not propose to interfere with the advertising matter put up by business and similar interests who have a legitimate reason for informing travelers of what they have to do. These have a definite value to the public and will be allowed to remain. All other signs, however, will be subjected to rigid government test and unless they meet with official approval they will be destroyed."

Sweden's Honey Crop Shows Big Reduction

Unfavorable Season Will Make Imports From Other Countries Necessary

Production of honey in Sweden during 1927 is estimated by the president of the Association of Swedish Bee Raisers, at about 1,200,000 pounds as compared with about 2,200,000 pounds during 1926, according to a report made public by the Department of Commerce. No estimates of 1928 production are yet available, but it is believed that it was much lower than that of 1927, due to an even more unfavorable season. The Association of Swedish Bee Raisers is a national organization interested in the promotion of bee raising in Sweden. This association, which is divided into 25 county associations, and 486 local units, has a total membership of over 10,000. Owing to the greatly reduced production during the past two seasons, Swedish dealers have had to turn to foreign sources to supply the domestic demand. Most of the imports have come from Germany and the United Kingdom. They often consisted of transshipments of Canadian, American and Australian honey.

Something More Needed

Motorist May Comply With Law and Still Take Chances

Putting your hand out of the car window when you intend to turn to the left, stop, or pull out from the curb is quite the proper procedure, particularly so far as the other fellow is concerned, and it is in compliance with the law, as one should, but did it ever occur to you that you have neglected doing the one thing that would insure your own safety, and that is looking back before you put out your hand, to be sure that you can safely do the thing you are intending to do.

There are so many drivers that drive just "within the law" that it is astounding that we do not have many more accidents than we do, and to too many the worst offenders are those who, when intending to turn merely stick out their hand, pull it back again and make their turn, with never so much as a glance to the rear to see if the way is clear. True, the law does not require that we look behind it is a good deal like the story they tell of John Jay, who died maintaining that he was looking back at the personal preference that we keep our car and skin whole by keeping out of the other fellow's way as much as we can.

Then, too, there is so much of this attempting to drive a fellow back into line that we believe it is safe to say how many of us in trying to pass a car going in our same direction, we look behind us, and if it is of the other car and they purposely, or it may just so happen, that they increase their speed at that particular time and we find ourselves about to meet up with another car coming toward us and the coming driver just sticks to the right, or way, so called, making it very uncomfortable for us, when, if he had the slightest consideration, he might have taken a bit to the shoulder and saved our nerves. The chances are the day won't be over before this same driver will find himself in the same boat as we were, which just means the application of the Golden Rule can be very nicely applied on the highway as well as in other walks of life.

Trees Grow Without Soil

Many Varieties in Southern Chile Freely Thrive the Rock

Large trees growing without any visible means of support are one of the queer sights of the Zapata swamp of southern Chile, which is nearly 8,000 square miles in extent. Many varieties of trees, some 4 feet in diameter, are found growing in limestone areas where not so much as a single speck of soil can be palpated from an acre. The trees make a start in small pockets and holes in the limestone, where collections of leaves and disintegrated rock furnish them with cover for growth.

In their search for food the roots stray about over the surface of the rock, finally plunging through holes to find sustenance in soil hidden deeply in the cavernous recesses of the coral stone.

Prove Scissors Are Old

Pair in London Museum Has Trade Mark Known 250 Years Ago

A pair of scissors, said to be 250 years old, has been acquired by the Guildhall (London) Museum. The scissors were discovered behind some old paneling in the house known as Queen Elizabeth's Lodge, in Rippling Road. They were covered with rust, but when this was removed it was found that they had a mark stamped on each blade. This maker's mark consists of a heart above a monogram of the combined letters "T" and "B", and a reference to the records of the Cutlers' Company has established the fact that this heart was assigned as a trade mark to Thomas Elliott, in 1673 or 1674. The scissors, therefore, belong to the time of Charles II.

Before the world war, helium was a scientific curiosity which cost $2,000 per cubic foot; whereas now the production cost is about two cents per cubic foot.

The Human Heart

Hardest Worked Organ in the Body, and Should Be Carefully Considered

In the single day, the human heart expends enough energy to lift its owner to a height of over 400 feet, according to a statement on heart disease issued recently by the Chicago Board of Sanitary Inspection. No other organ is worked so hard as the heart. The only rest it ever gets from birth to death is the small interval between heart beats. It beats more than 100,000 times, and pumps 1,000 gallons of blood every 24 hours.

Heart disease has many causes. Communicable diseases form the greatest single cause, for even when a child has apparently completely recovered from diphtheria, scarlet fever, or some other communicable disease, research has shown that heart disease frequently develops later in life due to the injuries to the heart produced by the germs of these diseases. Typhoid, diphtheria, and acute rheumatic fever frequently produce poisons that injure the heart. Syphilis and defects at birth are other causes, while excessive use of alcohol, drugs and tobacco may cause injury, especially in people who are nervous.

The best way of checking up on your heart—remember, it can only "pull" once—is to have yourself periodically examined by a physician, twice, or at least once a year. When it defects are found, you may conduct yourself to husband your strength and to protect your heart against strains. It costs a cent more to obtain a physician's advice than to ignore it. Sixteen steps to take a quarter of a mile on the level. Persons who walk with inefficient hearts shouldn't play much golf. Back people, especially, should remember the motto: "Moderation in everything, and everything in moderation."

Not Good in Origin

"Jambores" As Inferred As Any Other Word Says Baden-Powell

An English scoutmaster states that the word "Jambores" is "Bum" sweet, and "bore" square or jagged. The last two syllables "bore" came from the aboriginals of Australia, and describe their crowded council meetings. The Australian scouts call their rallies "borebores." In amusing details of all these explanations, Sir Robert Baden-Powell, when asked where the word "Jambores" came from, replied: "Well, it will do as well as any other word, won't it?"

Rail Plane Invented

A new invention, called a "rail plane," capable of carrying fifty passengers and achieving 120 miles an hour, will soon be tested at Glasgow, Scotland. The rail plane was described as a "controlled airship." It consists of a Zeppelin-shaped car, driven by two propellers and suspended bodies which are run on rails.

The Header Barge

In Canadian Harvesters Has Been Found Particularly Useful When Grain Is Short

The short straw in many of the grain fields in the prairie provinces this year is providing an excellent test for harvesting equipment of different kinds. The combine reaper-thresher is coming greatly into use in these provinces, and has this year no doubt saved much grain that would have been lost, if harvested by the usual scythe-binder. The latest model called the "header barge" that works the combine is found to be particularly useful in short grain. Seven years' experience with the combine reaper-thresher has taught the officials of the Dominion Experimental Farms useful lessons concerning this machine. The results of the experience and observations on this machine have now been printed in bulletin No. 118, of the Department of Agriculture, at Ottawa. Referring to harvesting with the header barge combine, this bulletin tells that the cost of a twelve foot cut header is about $450. A combine barge having a main diameter of 14 feet by 6 feet and six in height, can be constructed at a cost of about $1,000. The total cost of the machine is about $1,875. When 500 acres are cut the cost is reduced to $1,095. In straight combining, this has been found to be particularly true in light crops such as many farms have been able to handle.

The header barge collects the heads as they are cut and dumps them in little stacks where the grain is allowed to dry until hard enough for thrashing. Thrashing header barge stacks with the combine is cheaper than separator thrashing or straight combining. This has been found to be particularly true in light crops such as many farms have been able to handle.

Volcanic Dust Deposits

Beds In West Many Feet Thick Are Being Worked

Volcanic dust beds thirty feet thick are being worked in the deposits near Wallace, eleven miles west of Swift Current, Saskatchewan. Extensive and pure deposits also occur on the Deadman River, thirty miles north of Ashcroft, British Columbia, and on the east shore of Arrow Lake, twenty-five miles north of Nakup, British Columbia. Several other occurrences have been discovered in the vicinity of the Saskatchewan deposits. Volcanic dust is used for the manufacture of cements and securing powder and in some instances as a substitute for fuller's earth in the refining of hard oils and fats.

Stone-Eating Microbes

Infect Buildings As Other Germs Do Human Bodies

A London belpier, Dr. Buchanan, has discovered microbes which feed on stone. The germs have been artificially cultured and are of various types. They attack the carvings, cathedrals, and monuments, and infect buildings as other germs do human bodies. Having found the disease it is surmised that it may be easy to find the cure and so prevent the decay of beautiful buildings.

An Ancient Fire Engine

Was Made in London Over Two Hundred Years Ago

The oldest known fire "engine" in England has been found at the London Museum. It is a large wooden tub, and water was pumped through an iron pipe in the middle. The tub rested originally on a carriage with solid wooden wheels, but these have disappeared. The "engine" was made in London, in 1678, for a town in Bedfordshire.

Dairy Products

Suggestion Is Made That University Of Saskatchewan Should Establish Milk Research Foundation

Commenting on an address by Dr. E. C. Miner, professor of agricultural economics at Cornell University, before the Milk Producers' Association, held at Saskatoon, George H. Williams, president of the United Farmers of Canada, Saskatchewan, said the speaker had rather the dairy industry or "struck the keynote of the problem when he suggested that the university of Saskatchewan would be doing a wise act in establishing marketing research."

"This is the line," the U.F.C. president said, "with a resolution passed by the board of directors of the U.F.C. on June 29, 1926, that 'in view of the present unsatisfactory situation in the dairy industry, we ask the research foundation to establish a fund for the purpose of carrying on an investigation with a view to ascertaining the best method of marketing dairy products of Saskatchewan having regard to the following organizations be represented on the committee making the investigation: the U.F.C., the Dairy-men's Association, and the Milk Producers' Association. We are not particular whether the inquiry is made by the university or our political or economic department or the university, so long as it is done.'"

"The U.F.C. president continued, 'is not a problem of production, but a problem of distribution, and every encouragement toward the solution of the distribution' question."

"At the recent meeting of the Chamber of Commerce at Edmonton, John W. Dufor, of the Manitoba Free Press, stated in effect that if the problem of agricultural production could be solved, it would solve many other problems."

"The Minister is doing excellent work in investigating the costs of production of dairy products, but he requires that the marketing problem be after all of supreme importance. 'It is our opinion,' Mr. Williams concluded, 'that it would be an excellent step if the government were to suggest to the university authorities an investigation into marketing research with a view to establishing a sound economic basis for agriculture.'"

Landmarks Are Just Used As Background

Tourists Like To Be Main Figure In

The most photographed landmark of Paris is the tourist, occasionally the Eiffel Tower and the Arc de Triomphe and the Place de l'Opera come in for their share—but when that is true it is in a plain case of bad fortune, for they were intended to be in the background, with Mr. Williams, Miss or Auto Tourist in the foreground. Developing plans for the tourist trade in Paris is one thing; among them this fact: The traveler loves to photograph nothing better than himself. A picture of the Madeleine is as well well as a souvenir, but that church takes a golden hue when Mr. Tourist can persuade some one to "snap" it while he stands on the steps. That puts "real touch" to it and makes ultimate display of the collection a real pleasure."
